THE FINDING

The internet thinks you are a two-year-old company with eight reviews.

Hard Rock has fabricated stone in North Texas since 2010, carries a 4.9-to-5.0 rating on every platform that lists it, and holds two Best of Houzz awards. None of that reaches the places an AI engine or a luxury buyer looks first. The rebrand from Hard Rock Granite & Tile, the move from Dallas to Arlington, and the Southlake office each left a fragment behind, and the fragments have never been joined.

REVIEWS WHERE AI LOOKS FIRST

Google and Yelp, the two most-cited local sources

PAGES FOR YOUR OWN MARKET

No Southlake, Colleyville, Westlake or Keller page. One page is titled for Frisco.

Every review platform agrees you do excellent work. The problem is that they disagree about who you are. Two names, two live websites with two different emails, four addresses, and four different "years in business" are indexed right now. AI engines build an entity from consistency. This one does not resolve, so the proof never attaches to the name.

WHERE THE PROOF LIVES

A hundred and fifty reviews, stranded on the platforms that matter least.

Each listing as it appears today. The two surfaces AI engines cite most for local services — the Google Business Profile for Google's AI Mode, and Yelp for ChatGPT — are the two thinnest.

Why the location of a review matters more than its count

Independent 2026 studies of local-service searches put Google's own Business Profile data in roughly 80% of AI Mode citations and the business's own website in roughly 73% of AI Overview citations. Yelp is the source ChatGPT returns most consistently for "who should I call." Reddit and Nextdoor threads are cited by every engine. Angi and Houzz are read, but they are not where the answer is formed.

Moving the proof is the fastest large win available. No new customers are required. The reviews already exist; they are simply filed where the engines do not look, under a name you no longer use.

WHAT COMES BACK TODAY

Named in Southlake by the profile alone. Named nowhere else.

Buyer questions were put to search and AI answer surfaces on 27 October 2026. These are observed snapshots, not estimates. The forty-question probe set on the next page runs across all six engines at kickoff and every two weeks after, so movement is measured against a recorded baseline.

Read across the rows. Asked by name, the business is found. Asked the way a buyer in Southlake, Colleyville, Arlington or a Fort Worth estimator actually asks, a competitor is named every time. Arlington Marble is already writing Colleyville neighborhood copy from across town. Hard Rock is on S. Kimball Avenue and has no Southlake page.

EVIDENCE, GOING FORWARD

Forty questions, six engines, every two weeks

The prompt set is built around the three buyers you named: the luxury homeowner, the builder or designer who refers, and the commercial estimator. A sample follows; the full set is loaded at kickoff and each answer is stored with a timestamp.

BRAND AND WEBSITE

What's undercutting the work, ranked by damage

The craft is not in question: seam quality, slab-selection guidance and clean installs come up unprompted in reviews going back a decade. What follows is everything standing between that record and a buyer believing it.

Critical Two names, two live websites, two emails

hardrockgraniteandtile.com still serves its own home, company, services and contact pages under the old name with info@hardrockgraniteandtile.com. The new site uses info@hrccdfw.com. Nothing redirects. To an engine these are two businesses sharing a phone number.

Critical Angi says you may be out of business

The Arlington listing that holds 97 five-star reviews carries a "this pro may not be in business" notice. A homeowner cross-checking you sees it; so does every crawler.

Critical The proof is filed where the engines do not look

134 reviews on Angi, 7 on Houzz, 8 on Birdeye, all under Hard Rock Granite & Tile. Eight on Google and one on Yelp under the current name. The engines form the answer from the latter two.

High Yelp lists you as a general contractor

Wrong category, one review. Yelp is the source ChatGPT cites most for local services. A buyer asking it for a countertop fabricator cannot be shown a general contractor.

High No page for the market you sit in

No Southlake, Colleyville, Westlake, Keller, Grapevine, Trophy Club or Arlington page. The indexed bathroom-vanity page is titled "Frisco, TX." Competitors in Colleyville and Richardson already publish Southlake pages.

High Commercial work is one sentence

"Homes and businesses" and "offices and commercial projects" appear once. There is no commercial page, no capability statement, no sectors, no lead times, no insurance facts, nothing an estimator can forward.

High

Four ages, four addresses

Founded 2010 on Yelp and D&B; "over 15 years" on the site; 16, 27 and 28 years across three Angi and HomeAdvisor listings. Addresses indexed in Dallas, Watauga, Arlington and Southlake. Nothing says which is current.

Medium

Legacy URLs still indexed

A query-string page from an earlier content system ("Residential Countertops Stone Supplier in Southlake, TX") is still in Google's index alongside the new site, a sign of an incomplete migration that a crawl will confirm.

Medium

No machine-readable identity

No LocalBusiness or Organization schema was found in any indexed page, no FAQ markup, and no sameAs links tying the site to the profiles. The site never states, in a form a model can read, that Hard Rock Custom Countertops and Hard Rock Granite & Tile are the same company.

Medium

"By appointment only" reads as absence

Both locations are appointment-only, the Google hours are incomplete, and a luxury buyer who reaches voicemail calls Arlington Marble next. Appointment-only should read as exclusive; today it reads as closed.

Medium

No trade program for the people who refer

Builders, designers and cabinet showrooms send repeat work on reliability, not price. There is no page with lead times, templating turnaround, bid-ready pricing or terms for them to hand a client.

Low

The blog answers no buyer question

Posts are seasonal lifestyle pieces (Memorial Day entertaining, busy family kitchens). None is a question a buyer types; none names a city; the 2025 quartzite piece is the only one aligned to what the luxury market is asking for.

Low

No price anchoring

Southlake kitchens trade at $50,000–150,000 all-in and Colleyville countertop installs average about $3,000 for mixed materials. A stated starting range for quartzite and marble filters tire-kickers and signals tier.

ONLINE PRESENCE

Where you show up, and where you don't

Nineteen channels, weighted by share of realistic lead flow for a fabricator in Northeast Tarrant County with commercial ambitions. The weights sum to 100.

#	CHANNEL	STATUS	WEIGHT
1	Google Business Profile, Southlake The surface AI Mode cites in four of five local answers. Needs full hours, secondary categories, products, services, seeded Q&A, 30+ geotagged job photos, and a posting system that does not depend on anyone remembering.	8 reviews	18%
2	Google review velocity Target 40 within 30 days from the Angi, Houzz and Birdeye base, then sustained weekly asks.	Stalled	12%
3	Name, address and phone consistency Two names, four addresses, two emails, four founding dates across 31 listings.	Conflicting	12%
4	Yelp ChatGPT's most consistent local citation.	1 review, wrong category	8%
5	Website technical Old domain live, legacy URLs indexed, Frisco title, no schema found, hours and email mismatches.	Fragmented	8%
6	City and neighborhood pages Southlake, Colleyville, Westlake, Keller, Grapevine, Trophy Club, Arlington, Mansfield, Fort Worth.	None	7%
7	Houzz Two Best of Houzz awards sitting under the old name in Dallas. Designers shortlist here.	Old name, old city	6%

RECOMMENDATION

Consolidate the entity, move the proof, then open three doors

You asked for more jobs, commercial work and higher-end residential clients. Those are three different buyers who find a fabricator three different ways, and each is missing a specific asset.

One company, one name, one address set, then a page and a proof for each buyer

Nothing in this plan works while the engines hold two businesses. The first four weeks make Hard Rock Custom Countertops the only answer to "who is Hard Rock Granite & Tile," move the reviews to Google and Yelp, and clear the Angi flag. Only then do city pages, a trade program and a commercial capability statement have something to attach to.

The category to own is natural stone for Northeast Tarrant County's luxury kitchens, which is where the price, the trend and your strength coincide. Commercial is the second door, opened from the Arlington shop, with a certification if eligibility holds. Volume residential follows both.

BUYER	HOW THEY FIND A FABRICATOR	WHAT IS MISSING TODAY
Luxury homeowner Southlake, Colleyville, Westlake, Keller, Trophy Club	Asks ChatGPT or Google for "best quartzite fabricator near Southlake," reads the Google profile and Yelp, looks for their neighborhood in a portfolio.	City pages with real local jobs, a quartzite authority page, consolidated reviews, a by-appointment experience that reads as premium.

BUYER	HOW THEY FIND A FABRICATOR	WHAT IS MISSING TODAY
Builder, designer, showroom The referral layer	Does not search. Refers on reliability. Wants lead times, templating turnaround, a price sheet to bid from, a PM who answers.	A trade program page and leave-behind, a Houzz profile under the current name, lunches. One designer relationship can carry several jobs a month.
Commercial estimator Interior-finish and multifamily GCs	Finds subs on Blue Book, ISqFt, BuildingConnected and past bid lists; searches "commercial countertop fabricator Fort Worth" when a sub drops.	A commercial page, a capability statement, sectors and lead times, insurance facts, shop-drawing capacity, and ideally a certification primes are required to solicit.

THE TARGET MARKET

Northeast Tarrant's luxury kitchens, and the Arlington–Fort Worth commercial corridor

The Southlake office sits inside the richest cluster of suburbs in the county. The Arlington shop sits inside the largest hospitality and multifamily build-out in it. Neither fact appears on the website.

MARKET	HOME VALUES, 2026	WHAT THE BUYER IS ASKING FOR
Southlake Carillon Parc homes under construction; Timarron, Vaquero-adjacent	~$1.3M typical	Quartzite (Taj Mahal), honed finishes, book-matched islands, a fabricator who will walk the slab yard with them.
Colleyville Vineyard, Bridlewood Estates	~$1.0M, +11% YoY	Large-format slabs for remodels; competitors already name these neighborhoods in copy.
Westlake Vaquero, Glenwyck Farms	$5.1M median sale	Marble and rare quartzite, waterfall edges, designer-led. The highest ticket in the county.
Keller · Trophy Club · Grapevine Steve Naylor and Platinum Granite's home turf	$550K–900K	Volume remodels, quartz and quartzite, speed and reviews decide.

MARKET	HOME VALUES, 2026	WHAT THE BUYER IS ASKING FOR
Arlington · Mansfield The shop's home market	$350K–600K	Granite and quartz replacements; Hilton's Flooring wins on slab-yard convenience today.

The commercial pipeline within fifteen minutes of the Arlington shop

Arlington Entertainment District: a ~510-room Americana by Loews hotel ($500M) breaking ground after the World Cup, the 404,000 SF Anthem mixed-use project ($135M+), One Ranger Way luxury multifamily, a 145-room boutique hotel on the old Caravan site. Fort Worth: Westside Village ($1.7B; first phase 308 units and 100,000 SF of office), $473M of multifamily permitted in January 2026 alone, the North Stockyards hotel and multifamily. Southlake's Carillon Parc commercial phase is tabled at council; when the retail plaza is approved it is the hometown commercial target.

The Blue Book counted countertop scopes on 232 restaurant projects and 76 non-residential buildings in DFW in the past twelve months. KAT Fabricators, Galaxy Granite and Countertops Inc are the names estimators see. Hard Rock is not on the list because Hard Rock has not told anyone it belongs there.

TIMING

Two things happening in the market that nobody local is saying out loud

Quartz got a tariff. Natural stone did not.

A Section 201 safeguard on imported quartz surfaces took effect 15 August 2026: 25% inside a quota, 50% above it, stacked on the anti-dumping duties already on Indian and Turkish quartz. Granite, marble, quartzite and soapstone are outside scope. Every homeowner and every GC estimator in DFW is being re-quoted on quartz this quarter.

"Natural stone is tariff-proof. Your quote is locked for sixty days." Factual, timely, and a reason to call Hard Rock instead of the quartz-led shops.

2026 is a quartzite year, and specs are watching silica.

Designer trend reports for 2026 put quartzite, honed and matte finishes, marble-look veining and porcelain at the top, with granite fading. That is a natural-stone fabricator's year.

Separately, California is advancing restrictions on high-silica engineered stone. Not Texas law, but architects and national GCs are already writing silica language into specifications. A one-page silica-safe fabrication statement (wet cutting, dust control, monitoring) wins that conversation before a competitor has one.

GROWTH

Every way to get the name out

Ordered the way it should be built: relationships first, proof second, spend last.

In person

Referrals close luxury kitchens. This is where the first year is won, and it is the owner's calendar, not a platform.

- Builder program with the Southlake–Westlake custom builders: Atwood, WillowTree, Eclipse, Stewart, Calais, Garabedian, J. Lambert, Providential, PentaVia, Matt Adams, Monument, Lorant & Elliott, Sierra Fine, Vesta, Veranda
- Designer lunches: Kat Black Interiors, Land & Luxury Studio, The Kitchen Source, Pristine Home Interiors, Heritage Design Studio, Crest Residential Design, Compassion Construction
- Showroom partnerships where countertops get specified: The Designery Southlake, Cabinet IQ Grapevine, Cabinet Savie, Starpower Southlake
- Commercial: capability statement in hand to Steele & Freeman, Byrne, Muckleroy & Falls, Bob Moore (Arlington), Ridgemont, Reliable, Westwood, Rampart Multifamily, FPI, CCI, AUI, Kinley, PRIM; multifamily specialists KWA, Cadence McShane, Moss
- Southlake Chamber alongside Grapevine; Greater Fort Worth Builders Association; NARI North Texas; NKBA Dallas chapter for the designer room
- Texas HUB and veteran-owned certification if eligibility holds; city small-business registries in Fort Worth and Arlington
- Job-site signage in Carillon and Vineyard; a Southlake selection studio appointment that feels exclusive, not absent
- Ask every designer, builder and cabinet partner for a Google review and a referral at install

Content and earned media

The engines cite the business's own pages in three of four AI Overviews. Give them pages worth citing.

- City pages for Southlake, Colleyville, Westlake, Keller, Grapevine, Trophy Club, Arlington, Mansfield and Fort Worth, each with real local jobs and neighborhood names
- Authority pages: quartzite vs quartz in 2026 and what the tariff means; Taj Mahal quartzite cost, care and the dolomite fakes; how long fabrication takes in DFW; what countertops cost in Southlake
- A commercial page and a downloadable capability statement: sectors, materials including porcelain and solid surface, shop drawings, insurance, lead times, references
- A trade program page: templating within five business days of cabinets set, slab-selection concierge, bid-ready pricing, 50/50 terms
- One dated luxury case study with designer co-credit, published to the site, Houzz and the Google profile
- Short templating, cutting and install videos for the Google profile, Instagram and YouTube; video is cited roughly twice as often by AI Overviews as by AI Mode
- Owner-answered threads on Reddit and Nextdoor where neighbors ask who did the countertops
- Southlake Style Readers' Choice and 360West Best of Southlake nominations (January), Community Impact business briefs

Paid

Only once the profile and pages convert.

- Google Local Services Ads and branded search across Southlake, Colleyville, Keller, Grapevine
- Search ads on "quartzite countertops Southlake" and "commercial countertops Fort Worth"
- Meta and Instagram geo-fenced to the five luxury ZIPs, creative from real installs
- Nextdoor sponsored posts by neighborhood
- Retargeting on every page and video

Automated

Where the work compounds instead of repeating.

- Review requests triggered at install, automatically
- Speed-to-lead: text back inside sixty seconds on every call and form
- Appointment booking for slab-selection visits straight onto the calendar
- Weekly auto-posting of install photos to Google, Instagram and Facebook
- Nurture for the 3–9 month remodel window
- Fortnightly AI-engine probes against the baseline, reported monthly

AI INFRASTRUCTURE

Running and scaling the shop, not just marketing it

Marketing creates demand. Infrastructure is what lets a two-location fabricator take it without the owner, who is also the company's general counsel, becoming the bottleneck on every estimate and every templating date.

Front office — stop losing what you already earn

Both locations are appointment-only. Every missed call on the (817) line is a luxury buyer dialing the next name on the list.

- AI receptionist that answers every call, day or night, books the slab-selection appointment and never sends a Westlake buyer to voicemail
- Speed-to-lead: inbound form or call gets a text back inside sixty seconds
- Email triage that separates bid invitations, RFIs, designer requests and invoices from noise
- Review requests and referral asks triggered automatically at install
- A simple status page for builders and designers: templated, cut, scheduled, installed

Internal operations — where a fabricator scales or stalls

Two locations, a distributor-based slab model and a growing sales team is three coordination problems landing on one person.

- Quote generation from a scoped template: slab, fabrication, edge, cutouts, install, tear-out, in minutes
- Commercial bid takeoffs from plans, against historical cost data, so GC invitations get answered on time
- Templating and install scheduling across both crews with automatic customer and partner updates
- Slab hold and remnant tracking across the distributors you use
- Job costing that flags variance while the job is running
- A weekly owner report: every job, every variance, every decision waiting on you

The honest sequence: front office at the same time as visibility, because a missed call wastes money already spent. Internal operations once the job count makes the coordination hurt, usually the point at which the owner stops being able to hold every templating date in their head.

THE PLAN

Phased, ranked by what grows the business fastest

Each phase is ordered by return, not by convenience. Nothing in a later phase works properly without the one before it, which is why the sequence matters more than the speed.

#	PHASE	WHAT IT BUYS	INVESTMENT
01	Foundation Weeks 1–4. Entity decision memo signed (one legal name, one primary address, one email). Old domain redirected page for page. Google Business Profile rebuilt: full hours, categories, products, services, Q&A, 30+ real photos, and a 52-week posting kit: a dated calendar, 52 prompts tuned to your market and seasons, a photo checklist and a one-page routine, so the profile keeps moving without a retainer. Angi flag cleared; Angi, Houzz, Yelp, BBB, Nextdoor, D&B renamed and re-addressed. Yelp category fixed. Review campaign to the Angi, Houzz and Birdeye base. Schema shipped with the old name as alternateName. Apple and Bing claimed. Certification eligibility checked and filed.	Stops the trust leak and joins the two businesses into one. Nothing below this line performs until a buyer who looks twice sees one company with 150 reviews.	$1,000 one-time GBP build includes the 52-week kit included free with the Sprint photos supplied by you
02	Visibility — 90-Day Sprint Months 1–3. Forty tracked prompts probed every two weeks; Maps grid at both addresses; town scan across eight cities. Nine city pages, four authority pages, the commercial page and capability statement, the trade program page. Houzz refreshed under the current name. Manufacturer locator applications. Blue Book, ISqFt and BuildingConnected profiles. Reddit and Nextdoor threads. One dated luxury case study. Monthly report with before-and-after against the baseline.	Closes the gap: named in Southlake by the profile alone today, absent for every buyer question tested. This is the measured problem in this report and the only line with a baseline already on record.	$1,500/mo 90-day minimum AI visibility and SEO includes the $1,000 GBP build one fabricator per market

#	PHASE	WHAT IT BUYS	INVESTMENT
03	GBP Autopilot Month 2 onward. Four posts a month written from your install photos and the buyer questions the engines are not naming you for, published to the profile on schedule. Review-reply drafts posted on your approval. Q&A watched and answered. A monthly profile snapshot. Included for the Sprint's ninety days; after that it continues month to month, or the 52-week kit takes over and nothing further is owed.	Keeps the profile fresh on autopilot instead of on willpower, and turns every install photo into a dated proof point the engines can read.	$97/mo included during the Sprint month to month after or run the kit yourself
04	Website rebuild, if the crawl calls for it Month 1, overlapping. If the kickoff crawl confirms a legacy content system behind the indexed query-string URLs, the content plan runs on a new build instead of patching the old one. If the platform is sound, this line is zero.	Makes every page in Phase 02 land on a site the engines can read: schema, speed, structure, one email, one name.	$1,500 flat, only if needed optional care plan $97/mo
05	Front-office AI Months 2–5. AI receptionist on the (817) line, sixty-second speed-to-lead, slab-appointment booking, email triage, automatic review requests, partner status page.	Protects the demand the phase above creates. A missed call on a $40,000 Westlake kitchen is the most expensive thing in this document.	$500 one-time setup then $397/mo
06	Trade and commercial doors Months 3–9. Builder and designer program delivered by the owner with 6 Signal's leave-behinds and lists; GC outreach to the twenty named contractors with the capability statement and the tariff quote-lock; chamber and association memberships; then paid: Local Services Ads, search, Meta, retargeting.	Adds streams that do not depend on search at all, and puts Hard Rock on the bid lists where commercial work is actually awarded.	scoped plus ad spend and dues, set by you

#	PHASE	WHAT IT BUYS	INVESTMENT
07	Internal AI infrastructure Months 6–12. Quote generation, commercial takeoffs, two-crew scheduling, slab and remnant tracking, job-cost variance, weekly owner report.	Removes the owner as the bottleneck. Worth doing when job count makes coordination hurt, not before.	$500 remote / $1,000 on-site scoping credited in full, then build fee + monthly run fee

How the pricing works

Fixed figures above are firm. Scoped phases are priced from a paid scoping session, $500 remote or $1,000 on site, credited in full against the build if you proceed within thirty days. Internal infrastructure cannot be quoted before someone has seen how the shop actually runs; a number given before that is a guess dressed as a quote.

The $1,000 Google Business Profile build stands alone if you want only that. Start the 90-Day Sprint and it is included at no extra cost. The Sprint is not discounted; the build is folded in, because a profile without posting, reviews and citations behind it decays back to where it started.

GBP Autopilot is the one recurring line in the foundation, and it is optional. The $1,000 build ships with the 52-week posting kit, so the profile can be run in-house from day one. Autopilot runs the same calendar for you, from your photos, at $97 a month: included for the ninety days of the Sprint, month to month after it, cancel any time. Nothing in the build depends on keeping it.

You shoot it, we do everything after. Photography and video are not included in any phase. You supply the images from your own camera or a photographer you hire; selection, naming, sequencing and publishing across the site, the Google profile and every channel in the plan are ours. Advertising spend, association dues, certification fees and third-party software are paid directly by you and are not fees to 6 Signal.

What Phase 02 would cost you assembled from agencies

The $1,500/mo Sprint covers AI visibility and conventional SEO in one line. Bought as separate services, the same scope looks like this.

COMPONENT, BOUGHT SEPARATELY	TYPICAL MARKET RATE
Local SEO retainer	$1,500 – $3,500/mo
Content production, 4–6 pieces a month	$1,200 – $3,000/mo
AI visibility monitoring and optimisation	$1,000 – $2,500/mo
Technical SEO and schema	$500 – $1,500/mo
Citation and listing management	$100 – $300/mo
Rank, Maps and reporting	$200 – $500/mo
Assembled total	$4,500 – $11,300/mo
6 Signal 90-Day Sprint — all of it	$1,500/mo

Those ranges are typical market rates for buying each service separately in this metro, not quotes, and not measured. The difference is not a discount; it is one operator doing the whole stack instead of four vendors each carrying their own overhead and account management.

> One fabricator per market per trade. Taking this on for Hard Rock Custom Countertops means not taking it on for another countertop fabricator in Northeast Tarrant County.

SEQUENCE

The first thirty days

In this order. Everything else in this report stacks on top of these eight. On the first one: you decide it, we do everything after.

01 Decide the entity: one legal name, which address is the primary profile, one email. Sign the memo.

02 Grant access to Google, Yelp, Angi, Houzz, the two domains and the phone line.

03 Redirect hardrockgraniteandtile.com page for page and retire the second email.

04 Rebuild the Southlake Google Business Profile and clear the Angi "may not be in business" flag.

05 Fix the Yelp category, then send the review request to the last 50 customers across Angi, Houzz and Birdeye.

06 Supply 30 real photos of installed jobs with the city and, where the client allows, the neighborhood.

07 Ship the Southlake page and the commercial page, thin, with schema; they are built out in month two.

08 Run the forty-prompt baseline across six engines and the Maps grid at both addresses. Everything after is measured against it.

METHOD

How these findings were produced

Thirty-one listings, nine indexed website pages, the legacy domain, and the public profiles of fourteen competing fabricators were reviewed on 27 October 2026. Review counts and ratings are quoted as each platform displayed them on that date. The buyer-question snapshots are recorded search and AI-answer results for eight questions, each listing the providers actually returned.

The forty-question probe set has been built and is run at kickoff across ChatGPT, Claude, Gemini, Perplexity, Google AI Overviews and Google Maps. Each answer is stored in full with a timestamp and judged for whether Hard Rock is named; these engines are non-deterministic, so the stored answer is the evidence, not the score. The same questions re-run every two weeks measure movement against that baseline. A deterministic crawl of the website for machine-readability (schema, sitemap, crawler access, titles) is run the same day and scored in code.

The brand, website, channel and market sections are analyst assessment, not measurement, and are labelled as such. Channel weights are judgement calls about lead flow in this market, not observed data. Market figures cite Zillow, Redfin, the City of Fort Worth, Tarrant Appraisal District, the Blue Book, the Federal Register and the Section 201 proclamation as published in 2026. Certification eligibility and the website platform are confirmed with the owner at kickoff.
